TWO HUNDRED STUDENTS
OF UTAH UNIVERSITY
VISIT STATE SCHOOLS

Over 200 students of the University of Utah made a special trip to Ogden yesterday to make a first hand study of industrial resources of this section and also of civic welfare by visiting the two state institutions, the Industrial school and the School for the Deaf and Blind.

The party was made up of students from four departments and were accompanied by the professors of those departments. The students were from the departments of education, sociology, philosophy and commerce and economy. They were accompanied by Prof. T. A. Beal of the department of economy and also of the school of commerce; Prof. George Coray of the sociology department; Prof. LeRoy Cowles of the department of education and Prof. E. E. Erickson of the department of philosophy.

Entertained by Prof. Driggs. The entertainment in Ogden was arranged by Prof. Frank E. Driggs of the School for the Deaf and Blind. The Utah-Idaho Central railroad company provided special free street car accommodations for the trip to the institutions visited. The four professors, in commenting on the entertainment provided for them stated that they had been royally treated by the Ogden people and that they could not adequately express their appreciation.

The first place visited was the plant of the Ogden Packing & Provision company. After being shown through the plant they were invited to the lunch room where meals are served to the employees of the company at cost, and there they were served with a fine lunch that was prepared chiefly from the products of the concern. The students and professors accepted the hospitality of the packing company at the invitation of S. S. Jensen, manager of the plant.

The students were taken through the various departments of the meat packing concern and shown how the products of the company are handled from the stock pens to the table of the consumer. Some of the dainty co-eds found the process very interesting, but desired to be hurried through the killing rooms. The lesson taught them was one of practical economy and business efficiency.

From the packing plant they went to the State Industrial school and were the guests of Supt. E. S. Hickley for more than an hour. Then they visited the Deaf and Blind school and were shown through the entire institution by Professor Driggs. They returned to Salt Lake in the evening over the Bamberger line.

PATRIOTIC AUSTRALIANS
IN WEBER COUNTY
AND IN OGDEN CITY

That the Australian people have proven themselves to be very patriotic is shown in the records of their achievements on the battle front in Picardy, where they have won great renown as warriors against the Hun. There are a number of Australian families, or members of Australian families in Weber county, and most of them have relatives with the British army in France.

One of the prominent families is that of D. D. McKay of Huntsville, Mrs. McKay being of Australian birth. In speaking of the war to a representative of the Standard recently, Mrs. McKay said that she had twenty relatives go to the front in France from her native land, Australia. Five of those relatives have made the supreme sacrifice for liberty and democracy and two have been wounded so that it is not believed they can recover.

Mrs. McKay's brother, J. S. McLean, who has been in Ogden for ten years and was, until he enlisted, foreman of the warehouse of the George A. Lowe company, has joined the Canadian forces. He departed from Ogden Monday night for Canada. Mr. McLean tried to enlist in all the branches of the United States army, believing it his duty to enlist with the army of his adopted country. He was the fourth brother of Mrs. McKay to join the forces fighting in the ranks against the mad ambitions of the kaiser. The recruiting officers of the United States forces rejected Mr. McLean on the ground that he was too heavy. But he persisted and finally enlisted in the Canadian forces, that seeming the only chance he might find to take his part in the world conflict.

Four Brothers in War. In speaking of her relatives in the army Mrs. McKay said: "I have four brothers and all of them have enlisted. Three of the four are married men. One of my brothers was recently made a lieutenant in the Australian forces. He has been in the army ever since the war began. He was wounded in the Dardanelles twice and was offered a discharge when he recovered the second time. But he refused and went back to the trenches. "My other brother has been there two years. I said 'good-bye' Monday night to my fourth and last brother, Mr. McLean, when he went away to join the Canadian forces after being rejected by the United States. He said he did not like to go to the Canadian army when the United States is raising such a large army, but he was determined to get in and go to the front. He is in earnest in his patriotism and is willing to make any sacrifice that is necessary, whether limb or life, to help win the battle for democracy. He said that he would try to be exchanged or transferred into the United States army when he gets across the sea. The George A. Lowe company told him when he left that his position would be held open for him when he returns after the war is over."

I have a brother-in-law who came from Australia four years ago and he has been connected with the Z. C. M. I. drug department at Salt Lake City. Although 43 years of age he enlisted, leaving a wife and three children. He is now fighting in the trenches, while his wife is here working to help support herself and children."

Mrs. McKay feels that her family has proved its patriotism, and she feels most keenly that if it were possible to get in and go to the front, she would be interested in winning the war. Some of the members of her family it would not be long until peace would be restored and that nothing would remain of the Hohenzollern dynasty but dark memories.

AUTOMOBILE CASE
ANSWER IS FILED

An answer was filed today in the district court by George E. and Osmond Ford, defendants in a damage suit brought by Parley and Rosella Pickford of North Ogden for the death of their daughter, Thelma Pickford, December 2, 1917. The little girl was riding in a stage with her father, which was struck by the Ford automobile at about 6:30 p. m. on that day and sustained injuries which resulted in her death. The Pickfords brought suit against the Fords subsequently for damages for the child's death. In their answer filed today the defendants declare the accident was caused by the carelessness and negligence of the plaintiff. They declare Mr. Pickford was driving northward on the left side of the road and that just before he got to their automobile which was coming from the north, he started obliquely across the road and ran directly into the machine. The defendants also declare that both lights of their machine were turning brightly, a fact which was disputed at the time of the accident.

CHARLIE CHAPLIN GETS
$1,000,000 FOR NEW
PICTURES

Think of it. One million dollars for a motion picture star. Charlie Chaplin under his new contract with the First National Exhibitors Circuit is to receive $1,000,000 for eight comedies. The eight pictures to be delivered in a year's time. "This is perhaps the largest amount ever paid a motion picture star, but there is only one Charlie Chaplin and millions of kiddies will help pay his tremendous salary. Mr. Chaplin has promised to deliver better comedies than has ever appeared under his name and his first of the new series "A Dog's Life" lives up to his promise. It will be shown at the Orpheum theater next week, beginning Sunday. The Orpheum theater is a part of the First National Exhibitors Circuit having signed to take all the releases of the largest exhibitors in the United States. Following the Chaplin picture will come "The Sign Invisible" with Michel Lewis, who played in "The Barrier" and following this will come the greatest picture of the times, Ex-Ambassador Gerard's "My Four Years in Germany."

M'ADOO PLANS
MORE REVENUE

Secretary's Scheme Meets
Immediate and Formidable
Opposition in Congress.

WASHINGTON, May 10.—Secretary McAdoo's plans for immediate legislation by congress to increase war revenues, announced last night, met today with immediate and formidable opposition.

After a conference today between Representative Kitchen, majority leader of the house, and chairman of the ways and means committee, with Chairman Simmons and other members of the senate finance committee, it was stated that revenue revision before next December is "very doubtful." Both Democrats and Republicans, it was said, are prepared to insist upon the administration's original program of deferring tax revision until the December session.

Unless Secretary McAdoo in a statement of the country's financial situation, which he is preparing for submission to the senate and house committee chairmen, conclusively demonstrates that immediate action is imperatively necessary, leaders of both branches of congress are prepared to insist upon postponement.

"If a revision is necessary," Representative Kitchen said after his conference today, "the fellows who are profiteering right and left on the war will feel it. The taxes on both profits and incomes will be raised so high that there will be little or no profiteering left in the hands of those who are now getting rich off the war."

Lieutenant Tells How He Brings Down Hun Aviator Officers.

MOBILE, Ala., May 10.—Lieutenant Frank Baer, member of the Lafayette Escadrille who has just won designation as an American "ace" by official recognition that he has brought down five German airplanes, is described by his father as "the most timid of our four children." But fighting has been Paul's game for some time, the parent continued.

How Lieutenant Baer achieved his ambition was described by the lieutenant in a recent letter to his father, A. E. Baer, an engineer of the Louisville & Nashville railroad. Lieutenant Baer told his father in his letter dated March 13, that he had had five combats in the previous ten days. Three bullets hit his machine but he shot down two Germans, and perhaps another one not yet confirmed," he said.

Previous to winning this "ace" Lieutenant Baer had been decorated with the Distinguished Service Cross for shooting down a Hun aviator in a hot fight against great odds. At the time he was attacked by seven German fliers. Describing that fight Lieutenant Baer wrote: "Well, dad, at last I got my first 'official' German airplane. Day before yesterday (March 11, 6 p. m.) I, unaccompanied, was flying inside the German lines. As time drew near for me to come home, as I had been out any full time, and while almost at our lines, the French sent up a signal to me which told me in what sector the Boches were. I turned around and was greeted by seven German planes. Part of the enemy machines were above me and part of them below.

"Well, I only had enough gasoline for ten minutes' more flight, and I was six or eight kilometers inside their lines. "I pointed my machine at the closest one to me, and as I got right on him, I opened up with my machine gun and down he went. The rest of them came at me and at the same time I sure did some scientific retreating." Well, the Hun I killed is 'official'; that is, I got credit for killing him. He fell about seven kilometers in his own lines, but the French saw him hit the ground.

The next morning, March 12, at 9:25 o'clock, I speared another Hun. It was in just about the same place as the first one I killed. He was about ten or eleven kilometers within his lines when he fell. I saw him crash into the ground. He was one of a patrol of five Boches. Again I had to do some 'scientific retreating.' I had all of them on my tail. Their bullets were flying all around me. However, I got home. The second one is not yet 'official.' I do not know if it will be officially recorded, but I hope so.

"I really have four Germans that I have bagged in the air, but credit for only one so far. I have had five combats in the last five days, with three bullets in my machine. But I shot down two Germans and perhaps another one not yet confirmed."

Lieutenant Baer has two brothers in the service of their country. Arthur Baer is a quartermaster aboard the cruiser Charleston and A. W. Baer is in the gun sighting department, navy yard, Washington. A. W. Baer served on one of Uncle Sam's submarines.

RATS TAKE BIG
TOLL IN ENGLAND

Ruthless Offensive Against
Pest Is Urged to Save
Food Stores.

LONDON, May 10.—The yearly damage to food by rats, in England alone, is estimated at $200,000,000, according to a cautionary notice just issued to farmers by a government committee. The latter urges a ruthless offensive against the rat. It says in part: "In your buildings, granaries, and barns, you have an underground enemy who destroys our food supplies almost as much as the submarine. The nation cannot afford to keep rats at a moment when every sack of wheat is urgently needed."

"In the rush of work on the farm, rats have been neglected and have multiplied. They breed faster than any other vermin. The rat will breed when four months old and have from three to five litters in a year. The average litter is ten, but as many as twenty-three have been found. At that rate of increase, you cannot go on feeding them. But unless you are prepared to feed them, it is an unneighborly act to keep them at all, for the moment you stint them of food, they will swarm over your neighbor's farm. "At a moderate estimate, the English countryside is feeding one rat per head of the total population of these islands, and ten rats will eat, apart from what they spoil, as much grain as you and your wife consume. Save the English harvest of 1918 for yourselves and don't waste it on rats. "What are you to do? Keep your grain protected and make the fullest use of traps, snares, ferrets and dogs. Barn owls are among your best friends. Close rat holes with concrete and glass. Organize rat hunts and encourage rat-catching on your farms by giving some small reward. Hunt your hedge-rows with dogs and ferrets. Get your neighbors to do the same. "We cannot afford to feed the rats. We cannot raise too much grain, in fact we can hardly hope to have enough to feed ourselves."
